JAMES MONROE OLMSTEAD.

ARTHUR LOVELL WARE, Class Secretary.

THE First Triennial is herewith submitted to the Class.

It is a source of regret to myself that the Report is not more full. This is owing to the very meagre reports made by the majority of the Class, and the entire absence of reports made by many, which deficiency I have been obliged to fill from my own knowledge of the individuals, in many instances very scant, as may be understood by the statement of the fact that but two men have acceded to the request made the Class in my former report, to "write me at length once a year" in regard to themselves. I make this statement partly to explain the brevity of the Report, and partly to impress upon the Class the importance of accounting for themselves more fully in the future.

The "Class Baby" was born May 7, 1874, Macvane being the father. After some deliberation, it was decided to substitute a silver cup for the Class Cradle usually presented under the circumstances; which resolution was carried into effect, the result being the purchase of a cup calculated for use as well as ornament, and bearing the following inscription:—

Presented to EDITH MACVANE
BY THE CLASS OF SEVENTY-THREE,
HARVARD COLLEGE,
May 7, 1874.

"LAC MIHI NOVUM NEC ÆSTATE NEC FRIGORE DESIT."

The Class Fund is in a fairly satisfactory condition, a statement being made at the end of this Report. The whole amount subscribed is $5,310, of which $2,828 has been paid. The following schedule may be of interest: —

Number who have not subscribed to Class Fund,	20
“ “ “ subscribed, but have paid nothing,	11
“ “ “ paid 1st instalment only,	18
“ “ “ “ 1st and 2d instalments,	18
“ “ “ “ 1st, 2d, and 3d instalments,	28
“ “ “ “ 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th instalments,	31
“ “ “ “ in full,	6
	<hr/>
	132

In response to a circular sent to the class in behalf of the College Fund, I received subscriptions amounting to $1,115, of which $380 has been paid, and the same given to Hon. William Gray, Treasurer College Fund.

I have to report but one death in the class since graduation, that of Dorr, who died in New York, May 15, 1876, of typhus fever. Eaton's name was “starred” in the last Triennial, but, having heard from him within the month, I conclude it is an error.

ARTHUR L. WARE,

Class Secretary.

CLASS OF 1873.

CALVIN EDWARD ABBOTT.*

Died at Cambridge, Sept. 2, 1873.

CHARLES DAY ADAMS.

Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar Feb. 27, 1875, and has since been practising law at 7 Court Square, Boston.

LOWELL DOUGLASS ALLEN.

Was married, Nov. 10, 1873, to Carrie E. Allen of Waltham, and sailed for Europe Nov. 12, remaining there nearly two years, spending one year in Dresden, in the study of German and painting. A daughter, Marguerite, was born July 21, 1874.

ELGIN ADELBERT ANGELL.

“ After graduating, I at first entered into business with my father, in the oil country of Pennsylvania, but soon reconsidered my plans, and in November, 1873, returned to the Harvard Law School. During the time I spent at the Law School, I supported myself by tutoring, my teaching being mostly confined to mathematics. I remained in Cambridge until June, 1875, when I was graduated at the Law School, receiving the usual degree of LL.B. In November, 1875, I was awarded by the committee a second prize for a Bowdoin dissertation. I was admitted to the Bar of Massachusetts in September of that year. I came to this place (Youngstown, O.) March 1, 1876, to practise law. I was admitted to the Ohio Bar at the March term of the District Court for Mahoning County, in March last, after examination. At this writing, I have a fairly remunerative practice, with good prospects for the future."

FREDERIC FANNING AYER.

Went to Europe after graduation. Studied two years at Cambridge Law School, and subsequently opened a law office in Boston, with Babcock.

LEMUEL HOLLINGSWORTH BABCOCK.

Went to Europe after graduation, returning in September of same year, and entering Cambridge Law School. In December, 1874, entered office of H. E. Ware, in Boston. In December, 1875, "opened an office with Ayer; in other words, put out my shingle, and am now lying in wait for victims."

THOMAS WILLIAM BALDWIN.

From October, 1874, to January, 1875, was occupied in working on European and North American Railroad, and on the survey of Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad to Moosehead Lake. In fall of 1874 entered Massachusetts Institute Technology, Department of Civil Engineering, and is still a student there.

WILLIAM TORREY BARKER.

Studied medicine, and was private tutor in New York from Aug. 1, 1873, to June 1, 1874. Returned home to South Hanson June 1, 1874, remaining there, without special employment, until the following November. In November formed copartnership, under name of Barker and Mason, dealers in paper and twine, "in a small and unpretentious way up three flights," but in a month "came down, and occupied present store."

CHARLES EDWIN BATCHELDER.

Passed the summer of 1873 on his father's farm at North

Hampton, N.H., and entered Law School at Cambridge in September. In December took the position of head assistant of the Medford High School, which he resigned in April, 1874, sailing for Europe in May. Went to Paris, where he studied medicine until October, when he sailed for home, and settled in Portsmouth, N.H., where he studied law, and worked in a hat factory. Is at present in Hon. William Gaston's law office, Boston. Was married, Oct. 28, 1875, to Nellie M. Dearborn.

JAMES AUGUSTUS BEATLEY.

Soon after Commencement received appointment of assistant chemist for year 1873-74 at the Bussey Institution. In 1874 studied at the University for degree of A.M., and, in connection with the course, was employed in Coast Survey service. Since April, 1875, has been teaching the natural sciences in Chelsea High School, and intends to adopt teaching as a profession.

WILLIAM APPLETON BELL.

Medical student in Boston.

EDWARD DETRAZ BETTENS.

Has been in Cambridge for the last three years, studying. "Will graduate from the Law School this year, and expect to settle as a lawyer where the Lord directs."

FRANK HAGAR BIGELOW.

Went, after graduation, to the National Observatory in South America with Willson. Secretary has heard nothing from him personally.

EDWARD PENNIMAN BLISS.

Received the degree of A.M. in 1874, after passing an examination in Early English Literature. Is at present in business in Boston.

JOHN COFFIN JONES BROWN.

Has been studying medicine in Boston.

JOHN BRYANT.

Has been studying medicine in Boston.

COLLINSON PIERREPONT EDWARDS BURGWIN.

Studied the profession of engineering for two years at the Lawrence Scientific School; then entered the machine shops of William E. Tanner & Co., Richmond, Va., where he staid six months; then entered the office of the Government engineer in charge of the James River Improvements, where he still remains.

HARRY BURNETT.

Has been in business with his father in Boston since graduation.

CHARLES PEARSON BUTTON.

Is in business with his father in Milwaukee, Wis.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN CHENEY.

Has been studying divinity in Philadelphia, and expects to be ordained this summer.

ALFRED GAYLORD CHURCH.

Began study of law in fall of 1873, at Meadville, Penn., and was admitted to practice in the courts of Crawford County in August, 1875. Since that time, has been associated with his brother in the practice of law. Is engaged and "hopes to be married in a twelvemonth."

FREDERIC HERBERT COPELAND.

Has been at the Harvard Medical School, and expects to receive his degree in June.

HENRY SPENCER CRAM.

Is at present studying law at Cambridge.

JAMES GREENLEAF CROSWELL.

“The following is approximately correct ; but your questions are excessively personal, and difficult to respond to extempore. I am a tutor at Harvard College. I don't think I am engaged ; and, a fortiori, I'm not married. I have no degrees as yet, but expect to get the Ph.D. this year.”

TUCKER DALAND.

“You ask for a brief account of my life since graduation. I'll do more : I'll give you a very brief one. I have been an athlete, philosopher, globe-trotter, Christian, student, comedian, navigator, and Democrat — and that's about all. My moral status has been and always will be A 1, and my general health good. These are due to my spiritual adviser, Rev. —, and my medical friend, Dr. —, palmam qui meruit ferat. Present occupation is struggle for LL.B.

“Not much engaged matrimonially. The third question I consider insulting. Wife still retains her maiden name. Must really decline to make public the names of my children : they were mostly born April 1. Degrees and honors : Certificat d'ascension de Mont Blanc, and five term bills.”

ROBERT ALEXANDER BARNARD DAYTON.

Practising law in New York.

ROBERT DICKEY.

Graduated at Columbia Law School in 1875. Came to Harvard Law School in the fall of the same year. Is at present in Europe.

EDWARD SHERMAN DODGE.

Has been occupied since graduation as master in St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H. Is engaged.

HENRY SHERMAN KILBY.

Returned to Cambridge in the fall of 1873 as assistant in chemistry, studying also for the degree of Ph.D. Some months later accepted the position of teacher of Natural and Physical Science in the Fitchburg High School. Entered the Harvard Medical School in 1874, where he is at present a student.

WILLIS ALBERT KINGSBURY.

Received appointment of principal of the High School in Holliston, Mass., in 1873. Was made principal of the Framingham High School in 1874, which position he still holds.

JAMES LAWRENCE LAUGHLIN.

Has been teaching in Boston. Was married to Miss McGuffy in 1875.

WILLIAM CRANSTON LAWTON.

Has been teaching in the High School at New Bedford.

ISAAC NEWTON LEWIS.

Immediately upon graduation, accepted a professorship in the collegiate and commercial department of an academy in this State. At the close of his engagement, he travelled South and West, and went to Europe. Upon his return, entered Boston Law School, receiving the degree of LL.B., and being admitted to the Bar in 1876. Is at present practising law.

CHARLES KING LEXOW.

“On leaving college, I accepted the position of treasurer of smelting works in Salt Lake City, which position I held until October of that year. I returned to New York, and entered Columbia Law School, which I attended for eighteen months, when I was admitted as attorney and counsellor-at-law at a general term held in Poughkeepsie in May, 1875. I entered the office, immediately thereafter, of Sigismund Kauffmann, where I staid until March of this year, when I established, and was thereafter appointed counsel to, the German Legal Aid Society.”

JAMES OTIS LINCOLN.

ELIOT LORD.

Is "at work converting midshipmen into historians and philologists in the capacity of assistant professor of English studies, history, and law, at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, but will probably leave the service of the country before the end of the summer." The first year after graduation, taught at the Adams Academy in Quincy, Mass. Has an "unsubstantial hope of an A.M. based on a doubtful examination last summer."

GEORGE HINCKLEY LYMAN.

Travelled abroad fourteen months. Studied law in a Boston office, and at Cambridge.

JOSEPH LYMAN.

"As to your matrimonial assaults, I beg of you to consider me as still possessed of my right mind. My present occupation is that of losing money for the firm of A. A. Low and Brothers, New York, who to give virtue its just reward, and for their own protection, intend to make me one of themselves upon 1st July next. This doubtful honor is the only sop tossed to my ambition since graduating."

SILAS MARCUS MACVANE.

Has been steadily engaged at teaching since graduation, — two years as sub-master of the Roxbury Latin School, and at present, instructor in Political Economy at Cambridge. Was married, Aug. 1, 1873, to Emily G. De Mille of St. John, N.B. A daughter Edith, the "Class Baby," was born May 7, 1874.

AUSTIN AGNEW MARTIN.

JOSEPH MAURICE SHEAHAN.

Secretary has heard nothing from him; understands that he is in Europe, studying medicine.

FRANCIS RAXTER SHEPLEY.

"I am very glad to hear from you so frequently: all your communications have been read with much pleasure, especially that not dollar one. I haven't any money, and am not hungry: consequently shall not pay, and cannot be at the supper. My conscience is clear: and my mind and spirit are in a state of general discontent. Maximally I have no hopes: an inspired man was lately turned down, and I have no heart to answer those questions of yours, which are so suggestive of domestic blisses and blisters and wadies and baby-carriages."

GEORGE LANGDON SHOREY.

Entered a law office in Boston, in 1873, where he still remains. Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1873. Was married Jan. 15, 1876, to Mary F. Alley of Lynn.

Immediately upon graduation went to Pomeroy, O., where he studied medicine in a doctor's office until the following June. Returned to Boston, and entered the Medical School in 1874. Went to Europe in 1875 travelling in Switzerland and France, returning the same year to the Medical School.

HENRY HALLOWIN STONE.

Was for two years an apprentice in the machine shop of the Boston Manufacturing Company at Waltham, Mass., the last three months of that time holding the position of foreman. He left this place May 1, 1876, to accept a position in the South Boston Iron Company. Was married, Sept. 26, 1874, to Elizabeth C. Marshall of New Bedford.

FREDERICK WASHINGTON STORY.

Admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1875.

JOSEPH SKINNER SWAIM.

"In September, 1876, I went to Europe: travelled in France and Italy during the fall and winter: spent February and March in Egypt, ascending the River Nile as far as the first cataract: during April and May, I was in the Holy Land and Syria: visited Smyrna, Ephesus, Syria, Athens, and Constantinople, and returned to Europe via the Black Sea and River Danube. The spring and summer were occupied in travelling in the Tyrol, in Switzerland, on the Rhine, and in Germany, France, and England. I returned to Boston in October, 1874, and have been from that time studying theology."

MELVILLE HOWARD SWETT.

Upon leaving college went into the office of Chandler, Thayer, and Hudson of Boston as a law student. At the same time studied history for A. Has studied law, and taken degree of LL.B.

ROBERT WHEELER WILLSON.

"I spent the first year after graduation in the National Observatory at Cordova, Argentine Republic, S.A., leaving home two days after Class Day, and arriving home again Sept. 20, 1874, to become an assistant at the Cambridge Observatory. I have not space to enlarge on the experience of the year, but may say that it was valuable, and, on the whole, sufficiently agreeable. I came home via England, making a stay in London of about two weeks, and went to work at Cambridge immediately, taking charge of observations with the large equatorial, where I remained until the summer of 1875. Up to the spring of that year, I had been undecided whether I should make astronomy my profession; and, if Prof. Winlock had lived, I daresay I should have remained at the Observatory. His death, however, removing a strong motive, I gave it up, and accepted the position of tutor in physics, which I now hold, and in which I expect to continue until further notice."

ERNEST YOUNG.

"I have little to report of myself. I am instructor in history and Roman law here at Harvard. As for your other questions, you know what Howells says of Cambridge: 'A place very like Paradise, where they are neither married, nor given in marriage.'"

JOHN BLAKE WHITE.

After leaving college, studied medicine at Columbia College, receiving his degree in 1874, and immediately commencing practice in connection with his father. "My shingle was posted but a few weeks, when I received my first professional summons, which was an urgent one, and the case desperate. Though frightened almost beyond recovery, I had the extreme satisfaction of realizing that I prescribed nothing wrong, and the patient got well. For the benefit of those of my classmates who want to die, it would be well for me to state here, that I can sign burial certificates with the easy conscience which experience alone can impart." Has been interested to some extent in politics, and has filled several offices under the auspices of the Tammany Society. Is at present Health Inspector in New York. Is engaged.
